Party Hopping Terry Asks For Federalism

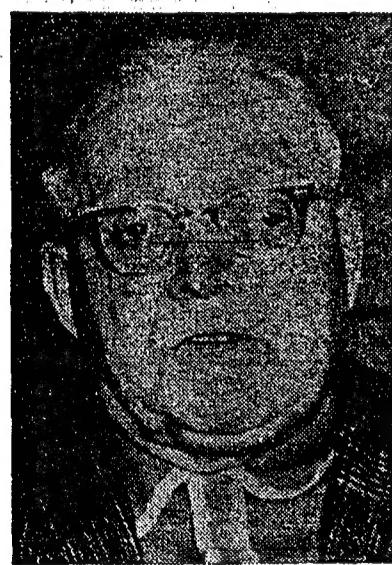

By Linda Priesman

Nebraska's most outspoken legislator spoke before a political science course this week.

Terry Carpenter, state senator from Scottsbluff, told students "I don't deal in ordinary things. I deal in controversy." The Nebraska legislator who has switched his party affiliation from Democrat to Republican and back to Democrat predicted that in one year there will be more troops in Viet Nam than there ever were in Korea.

Political Accident

Carpenter's political life began in 1932 when he was elected to the House of Representatives. "I was a political accident. The people couldn't do any worse so they took a chance on me," the politician explained.

A possible Democratic candidate for governor, Carpenter asserted that the federal government is going to have to take over the country in order to save itself from itself. Otherwise, he believes, the country will fall.

"We can afford to lose face with the Orientals but we cannot afford to lose faith with ourselves," the Scottsbluff politician contends. In answering the prevalent question of why the United States doesn't end the war in Viet Nam now, he quipped that this country isn't ready for that now.

Nation of Counterpunchers

"We are a nation of counterpunchers . . . prone to offer criticism . . . not based on knowledge," Carpenter alleged. Referring to critics of ADC (Aid to Dependent Children), he wondered if these people wanted to stop ADC without regard to the welfare of the 18 thousand dependent children on ADC.

Commenting on socialism in the United States, Carpenter stated this country has as many facets (of socialism) as a diamond ring. "In England the industries are owned outright by the government. Here in the United States we just tell them how to operate. This is the beginning of complete control . . . control of wages on steel, aluminum and copper," Carpenter concluded.

He spoke to Sen. Richard Marvel's State and Local government class.

Future Teachers 'See' OU In 1975

Secondary student teachers envisioned "OU 1975" in a paper for one of their weekly seminars.

Their visions included two campuses, the possibility of a junior college serving both Nebraska U and OU, state supported dorms, new buildings, a planetarium, a greenhouse, a swimming pool and expanded women's P.E. facilities.

The students wanted more lounge facilities similar to the lounge area in the BSC ballroom, which would be open all the time.

Members of the seminar group also felt that there should be a change in educational emphasis from content coverage to depth coverage. They felt that academic standards should be raised.

The students felt that teaching at OU should be updated, and courses should be added for the professors. They also felt that the larger enrollment would necessi-

Rowe Is Mother, Wife, College Student Who Enjoys The Omaha U Campus Life

She's a lot busier than the average student.

For Mrs. Joan Rowe is mother, wife, college student and community leader.

Mrs. Rowe, a sophomore in the College of Adult Education, is working toward a bachelor of general education degree in speech or English. At the same time, she is a teacher in Operation Head Start, the program for pre-school culturally deprived children. Recently, she was president of the Omaha Volunteer Bureau.

Mrs. Rowe took on these many activities purposely. "I decided that I have been doing a lot of things that I really didn't want to do," she explained. Now she manages to balance family life, which is her "number one activity" with the others. In fact, it

Hoffmans Firing Nets Criticism Of AAUP

The Nebraska conference of the American Association of University Professors, meeting in Lincoln last weekend, criticized the alleged lack of academic freedom in Nebraska state colleges.

Prime among topics discussed at the meeting was the recent firing of Ed Hoffmans, an avowed pacifist and former instructor at Kearney State College.

Dr. Jack Hill, head of the department of management at the University of Omaha, introduced resolutions in regard to the charges. The conference:

—deplored an "apparent failure" on the part of the Nebraska State Normal Board to improve conditions of academic freedom in the Nebraska state college system.

—urged all members of the academic profession not to seek appointment to any institutions in the Nebraska State College system. It further urged members to decline to make recommendations for appointments to such institutions until the normal board takes steps to improve conditions of academic freedom.

—encouraged the members of the conference to make these views known to the national body and to consider ways of increasing the effectiveness of censure of institutions.

In regard to the firing of Hoffmans, President Milton Hassel of Kearney State had stated that he was dismissed because he was "inefficient, too often missed assigned classes, disregarded college policy and regulations." He added that students had complained about Hoffmans' teaching ability.

The convention noted that politics and foreign policy did not enter into the discussions at Kearney. Members of the convention noted that it was not the firing, but the manner of firing that prompted a resolution by the association. Said resolution stated that Hoffmans was dismissed from the faculty contrary to what the association called "the accepted principles of academic due processes and to the best interests of higher education."

Corinthian Group May Go National

A review team from Phi Kappa Phi will be on campus Friday to discuss merits of the Corinthian Society.

Members of the Committee on Departmental Degrees with Distinction who are not in class will meet with members of the review team. The group will gather in the foyer of the Gene Eppley Library at 9:15 a.m.

The national honorary's team will ascertain whether OU's Corinthian Society will be permitted to petition for affiliation in Phi Kappa Phi.

her activities and she has had several articles published. A recent article on Mayor A. V. Sorenson appeared in The Magazine of the Midlands.

Additional community ventures have been with the Theater Guild, Symphony Guild and church. A member of the Red Cross of Directors, she served on the Flood Disaster Committee following both recent Omaha floods.

Tests Scare Her

Her grades have been in the A and B range. But, Mrs. Rowe says it hasn't always been easy. After being away from school for so long, she found that tests tend to scare her. "I got up at 4 a.m. for the first 7:30 a.m. final I had to take and it took my corpuscles a week to recuperate!" She noted, "I might as well be bottled and labeled aged jelly at exam time!"

Editorial Voice

"Well, the Chi O's did it again. Why even try to compete against them—the only qualification necessary to win is membership in Chi Omega sorority."

Sound familiar? It should. These and other similar words have been flying around since last week's TOMAHAWK Beauty Contest. Disgruntled members of other sororities originated the complaints.

It's apparent the chief complainers don't stop to think of the membership of Chi Omega. Couldn't it possibly be that these sorority sisters have the worthiest candidates? Or that they are more organized?

And what about the complaints that the Chi Omegas capture the highest grades. Maybe it's because they "try harder."

It seems that rather than complain year after year about the Chi Omegas, the other sororities should remember their cries from the year before when they plan fall and winter rush.

For those of you who still believe the TOMAHAWK Beauty Contest was rigged, rest easily—it wasn't. It's rather discouraging to work as hard as TOMAHAWK boss Barbara Brown and her staff did to make this contest legitimate and then hear that people so adamantly doubt the sincerity of their efforts.

Editorial Letter

Dear Editor,

This is a letter to nominate a student, Miss Cherie Moore, for whatever honors Omaha University has for outstanding honesty.

On the evening of November 23, Miss Moore found my purse, containing a large sum of money and several personal items of value. On her own initiative, she discovered the owner of this purse, located me in my classroom, verified my identification and returned the purse to me before I was aware that it had been lost.

I believe that an act such as this should receive the commendation of the Student Council and of the University. Anything that the GATEWAY can do on her behalf will be appreciated.

New Traffic Lights Will Help Drivers

Frustrated Omaha University drivers who have spent many anxious moments waiting to cross Dodge Street to 60th Street will have to put up with the almost impossible situation for at least three more weeks.

Burt Whedon of the city engineering department said traffic lights will be installed at the intersection and ready for use no later than the first of January.

Colleges Support Protest On Governor's Art Show

Letters of support have come from Nebraska colleges supporting the Art Club and its no-paint-in protest against the Governor's handling of the Nebraska Art Show—A Pre-centennial Presentation.

Two weeks ago the Art Club distributed a petition stating its objection to the rules of the show. It is not known when the petition will be submitted to the Governor.

OU Debaters Net Honors At Meets

University of Omaha debaters cornered the market in honors the past weekend by winning events at two separate tournaments.

OU students debating at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville won ten debates and lost three. Patricia Mullaney, OU freshman, won a trophy as one of the outstanding debaters in the tournament. She and her partner, Barb Stokes, took six straight debates before losing in the quarter finals to a team from southeast Oklahoma.

At the same tournament, varsity debaters Marty Williams and Jim Foral won two out of four debates. Marty reached theinals in original oratory.

In the meantime, other debaters journeyed to Wayne, Nebraska, where Dennis Adams and Janet Voelte were awarded first place in the senior debate division. OU's William Caffery was recognized as the outstanding debater of the tournament.

The next tournament for OU debaters will take place January 28-29 at Kansas State University at Pittsburgh.

No Restriction

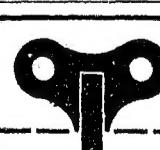

OU Art department head, Dr. J. V. Blackwell, said, "The Governor is ill advised to attempt to set up a fine arts exhibit sponsored by the state and attempting to restrict the subject matter to down-to-earth scenes in a representative fashion. This kind of attempt is quite similar to other totalitarian states in their attitudes of using art for propaganda."

Dr. Blackwell stated that art being used to promote scenic Nebraska is one thing. Why not propagandize the high caliber of Nebraska art, whether it is non-objective or realistic?"

Trickett Will Attend Historical Meeting

Dr. A. Stanley Trickett, history department head, will attend the annual meeting of the American Historical Association in San Francisco over the Christmas holidays.

The major professional gathering for historians will meet the day after Christmas.

Non-Achievers Usually Don't Improve Grades

Should a student who "goofs" his first semester in college be allowed a second chance?

"No," according to a recent study made at Omaha U. This study covers students who were re-admitted to OU after a one-year suspension. It also includes transfer students suspended from other universities.

The study was made by a department head who wishes to remain anonymous until University officials act on his proposal.

Omit Non-Achievers

One possible solution for the crowded classrooms at OU is to get rid of non-achievers.

Who is a non-achiever? He is a person who goofs again on his second time around after suspension.

The study shows more specifically that he is a person who has attempted 14 credit hours or less and accumulated a .60 grade point before entering the University.

This person, of course, has been suspended by OU or another university. The non-achiever may be re-admitted after a

APO Organizes Scout Fraternity

The aspirations of a young Omaha University student to join Alpha Phi Omega fraternity were stymied briefly, but his hopes of joining the national service fraternity may soon turn into a reality.

Alpha Phi Omega is a nationally-known fraternity for Boy Scouts, with the only prerequisite for joining being that of past or present membership in the Boy Scouts.

Jerry Abels, a freshman majoring in dramatic arts, came to the University looking for an Alpha Phi Omega chapter, only to find that it was inactive.

He immediately consulted Dean of Student Personnel Donald Pflasterer and the council scout executive for Mid-America Council, Boy Scouts of America, about the possibility of reactivating the fraternity. The former campus chapter was declared inactive in 1958.

Anyone interested in Alpha Phi Omega should call Council Bluffs 323-0398.

Drama Standout Hopes To Teach

The show's the thing for Gregg Loso.

One of the standout performers in last week's University Theatre production of "School For Scandal", Gregg is soaking up dramatic experience with an end in view—he wants to teach dramatics on the college level.

He has participated in 11 productions since his initiation as an actor at Benson High School. His first casting was in "John Brown's Body" at Benson. At OU, he was recently behind the scenes as student director of "Bus Stop".

Gregg began his college career with a full schedule, majoring in music and taking part in dramatics. His interest in dramatics grew and Gregg made it his major.

Outside of class, Gregg keeps busy as secretary to Dr. Edwin Clark and Professor Allen Longacre of the OU Drama Department.

Gregg is married. He and his wife Jane are parents of a son, Mark, 18 months.

Physics Professor Has Moon Tektite

It's interesting to know that while we're trying so hard to get to the moon, it might have already come to us.

Professor John McMillan of OU's physics department is in possession of what might be a piece of the moon.

It is a piece of tektite found in California by bootstrapper Richard Bishop. Scientists believe that this substance splashed off of the moon thousands of years ago when there was an impact of meteors.

The substance is a pitted glass that first was liquid caused by extreme heat.

one-year's suspension. The study shows he did not do much better or even did worse his second time.

Grades Below .60

Thirty-nine persons covered in the study had a grade point below .60 upon re-admittance or transfer to the University. Only one is still in college and is making "marginally satisfactory progress," according to his counselor.

On the other hand, the student with a little higher grade point tended to remain in college. Twenty-one students in this study had grade points between 1.60 to 1.99. Although suspended once, 19 are continuing satisfactorily in a four-year college program.

At present, OU re-admits virtually anyone wishing to return to college after suspension. However, this study may result in a re-evaluation of the current system.

Funeral Service Held For Kadlec

Funeral services were held yesterday for a 21-year old Omaha University sophomore who was killed early Sunday morning in a traffic accident.

George Thomas Kadlec was dead on arrival at County hospital from injuries suffered when his car struck a power pole near 56th & Center Streets.

Kadlec was a Liberal Arts major and a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

The services were held at St. Bernard's Church with interment at Calvary cemetery.

Funeral services were held in Fremont Wednesday for L. Peter Marr, husband of Audio Visual employee Metta Marr. Mr. Marr died of a heart attack Sunday evening.

Dr. Oleson Asks Students To Use Guidance Program

All OU students, particularly freshman, are advised by academic testing and counseling director Dr. Gale Oleson to make full use of his department this semester.

The department, which is located in Adm. 213, offers counseling about educational progress, occupations and careers and other personal concerns.

Dr. Oleson and his staff are ready to provide students with a complete vocational-educational guidance program to those who haven't yet decided on a specific field of study. Assistance is also available in choosing a career or to those who have a problem of adjusting to college.

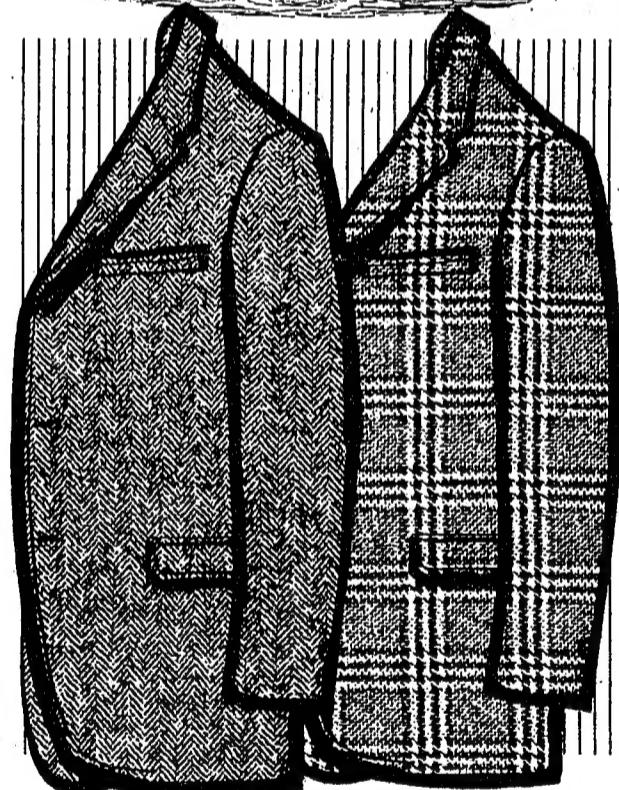

"I don't think many of the students here really know what facilities are available to them for the asking," said Dr. Oleson. "A student may come in any time voluntarily or may be referred by friends or faculty or staff members."

Added Dr. Oleson, "One of our most important jobs here is to guide the student into a specific field of study. About half of the students at the University today don't know what field they wish to pursue, and many of them are taking courses that they shouldn't be taking."

"We always encourage the freshmen to see us as soon as possible if problems develop," continued Dr. Oleson, "but the thing is that we don't usually hear from them until they are sophomores or juniors, which makes it difficult to change fields of study."

"Many seniors also come into our office, not yet knowing where they're going, but it's a little too late in the game for them."

CIC Opener Tomorrow—

Indians Gain Revenge By Whipping Duluth 84-50; Maroons Halt Win Streak At Two With 81-64 Win

By Mike Moran

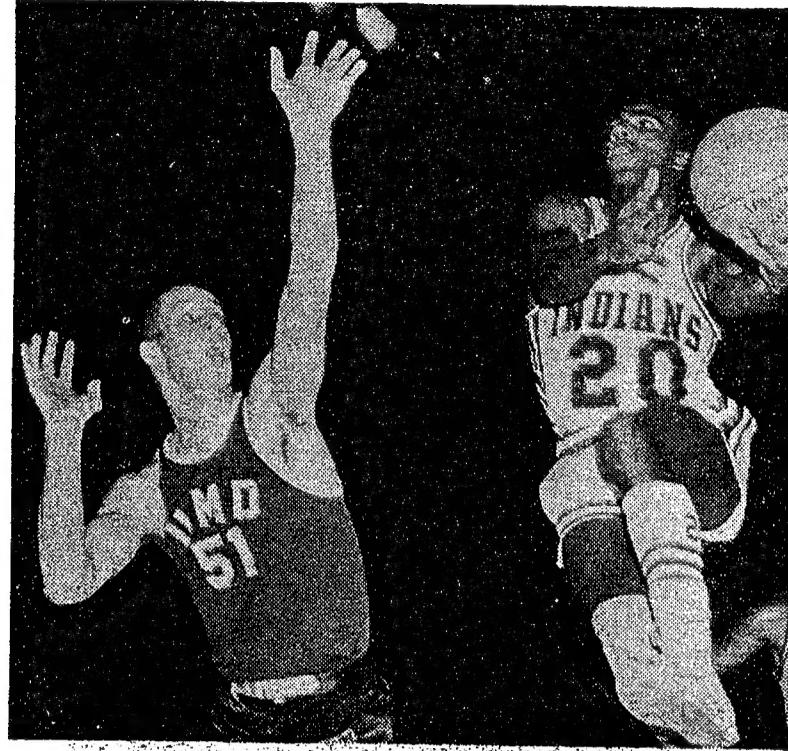

The driver's seat in the CIC race is at stake tomorrow night as OU's Indians invade Pittsburgh State to face the defending champs. The Gorillas are again favored to make the grade as titlist with all five starters returning from last year's "Cinderella" squad that came out of ices of started Bill Haas who was out with a foot infection that resulted from a blister suffered in the win over Duluth last weekend.

Bernie Miller started in place of Haas and threw in 11 points in a sub role. Fouls hurt Omaha early as hustling Jimmy Myers departed with five after scoring tip and roared to an 8-2 lead before the Bulldogs could get in gear. With Browne and Singleton doing the barricading under the nets, OU's fast break was able to roll in the early stages.

The Myers brothers completely befuddled the Minnesota guards and forced them into numerous mechanical errors that ruined any nowhere to win it all.

Heavily loading the scales in Pitt's favor is the home court advantage, a factor that is probably more prevalent in Pittsburgh than anywhere else in the league. Officiating at Gorilla home games is year in and year out the worst in the loop and even town barbers have warned visiting players to watch out for the men in the stripes. That's friendly advice from any barber, but the funny thing is that the barber just might turn out to be the referee many times in this Kansas town.

Bushville, U.S.A.

Winning in Pittsburgh might be likened to the three minute mile, a 9.0 dash time or Lindbergh's flight in 1927. Omaha head coach Jim Borsheim won't say it publicly, but there are many places he would rather begin the CIC season than in Bushville, U.S.A.

Morningside Wins

Morningside College of Sioux City put an end to the two game OU win streak Tuesday night with a convincing 81-64 win over the outclassed Indians at Sioux City.

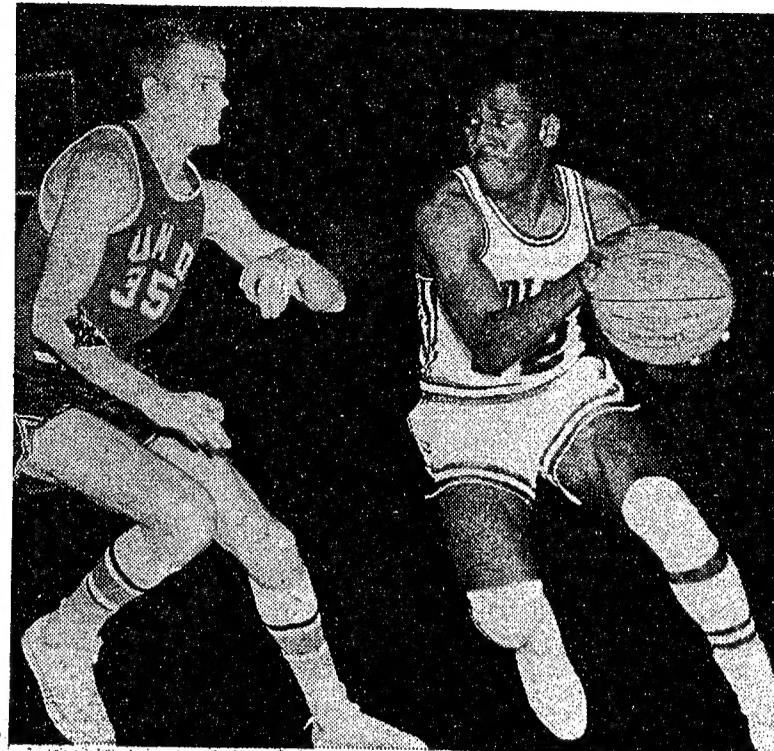

Omaha was never in the game and trailed, 44-20 at the half-time break. Morningside's John Vermilyea led all scorers with 31 points while teammate Bob Kilstrom, a hometown boy, added 19 for the Chiefs. OU's Sam Singleton led the Red and Black with 28 points in a losing cause. OU played without the serv-nine points. The loss of Myers crippled OU's pressing defense and the Chiefs were able to get the ball into Kilstrom and Vermilyea without trouble.

The loss gave Omaha a 2-1 mark going into tomorrow night's circus at Pittsburgh. Morningside, a team that looks to be a power again, is 3-0.

Omaha University's wrestling record stood at 1 and 1 Wednesday after the Indian grapplers dropped their opening meet to Nebraska and then rebounded at the expense of Kearney State.

Both opening matches ended in surprise results.

Nebraska topped OU 27 to 10 last Friday night in the season opener for both clubs.

Shook & Goduto Pin

OU's Gerald Shook pinned Nebraska's Ralph Garcia in the 130-pound battle, while Phil Goduto, the Indians captain for the night, handed the Huskers their second setback of the meet, in holding Al Hutchings down for the count in the 160-pound test. Those were the only two falls OU won.

The results:

123—Ron Thom, Nebraska, decisioned Gary Krieger, 8-0.
130—Gerald Shook, Omaha, pinned Ralph Garcia in 7:34.
137—Rick Allgood, Nebraska, decisioned Tom Murtaugh, 12-7.
145—Jerry Langdon, Nebraska, decisioned Rich Nowlville, 12-2.
152—Duane Dobson, Nebraska, decisioned Reagle Williams, 4-3.
160—Phil Goduto, Omaha, pinned Al Hutchings in 6:22.
167—John Hallgren, Nebraska, pinned Rick Davis in 6:25.
177—Lief Thompson, Nebraska, pinned Neil Franklin in 8:46.
Heavy—Carey Stith, Nebraska, pinned Tom Maides in 5:37.

36-0 Over Kearney

The Indians bounced back Tuesday night with a 36 to 0 romp past Kearney State.

The top match of the evening was the 115 pound clash where freshman Curlee Alexander decisioned the Antelope's Walt Griffiths.

The results were doubly encouraging for Alexander, a first-year man from Tech, since Griffiths was the NAIA district 11 champion a season ago and competed in the national meet.

The results:

115—Curlee Alexander decisioned Walt Griffiths, 10-1.
123—Gary Krieger decisioned Tim Hunsberger, 8-4.
130—Gerald Shook pinned Larry Erickson in 5:24.
137—Tom Murtaugh decisioned Lyle Gerhardt, 4-1.
145—Ken Netwig decisioned Bruce Swanson, 10-2.
152—Jerry Newville pinned Cliff Brock in 3:25.
160—Reagle Williams decisioned Gary Kegley, 10-5.
167—Phil Goduto decisioned Norm Schmeckle, 7-3.
177—Neil Franklin decisioned Joe Mosley, 8-4.
Heavy—Tom Maides pinned Rod Melroy in 5:49.

CIC Reps Invite Kearney To Join

The Central Intercollegiate Conference issued an invitation over the weekend to Kearney State of Nebraska to join the five-school league.

At their annual winter business meeting in Topeka, Kansas, CIC representatives voted to meet Kearney president Dr. Milton J. Hassel and invite the school into the conference. As of Wednesday there was no word from Dr. Hassel on the proposal.

However, there was comment from Antelope athletic director Charlie Foster. Foster said he hadn't really given CIC membership any thought, but noted, that "it would be years anyway before we could make the switch in football."

Foster, who's football teams over the last two years have gone 18 and 2, also said that "we're happy with what we have now." He did not elaborate.

CIC members include Omaha University, and four Kansas schools, Washburn, Emporia State, Fort Hays State and Pittsburgh State.

the way our students turned out and I only hope it continues," said Borsheim after the game.

The throng cheered the Omaha go-squad at every turn and gave the local heroes a standing ovation when the starters left the game in the second half with the game safely in the bag.

Traywick Presents Nite Football Hope

By Leo Meidlinger

A hope for the future was presented to Omaha University football fans Monday noon.

Speaking to those attending the annual fall sports luncheon, President Leland Traywick said he felt night games "are the thing" for OU football.

However, the president added quickly, there are three problems that arise when night football is discussed for the OU stadium.

Biggest Drawback

The biggest drawback, the president indicated, was the approximate $50-thousand-dollar light installation fee. "We (OU) just don't have that kind of money lying around in a slush fund," the president noted.

The second problem that would arise should OU choose to go to night games, according to the president, would be the cost of expanding the stadium's 55 hundred seating capacity. This coming in obvious reference to the hoped for larger crowds that night football presumably would attract.

Parking

The third drawback mentioned by the president was the heavy load the school's parking facilities would have to shoulder with the increased crowds.

Traywick noted, however, that all three of these problems are solvable.

Later, in a much lighter vein, football coach Al Caniglia commented that perhaps Gerald Allen and Jimmy Jones, both of whom just recently signed bonus pro football contracts, might like to chip in part of the light installation cost. There was no response from either Allen or Jones but plenty of laughter from the rest of the audience.

Caniglia, in discussing the past season, said he wished the football team could have ended on a happier note than the 36-30 loss to Drake, but noted, that "next year we'll be here with our referees."

Awards

In a more serious nature, Caniglia presented three individual awards as selected by a player vote.

Guard Harlan Aden, second team Associated Press Little-American and two-time CIC all-star team choice, was presented the top lineman award.

Quarterback Marlin Briscoe, who rewrote just about every passing and individual total offense marks on OU's books this year, was tabbed the outstanding back.

Cincinnati, Ohio, freshman defensive tackle, Ed Jackson, received the honor as the top first-year footballer.

Cardie Praises Gould

Track coach Lloyd Cardwell pointed out senior Ken Gould as "one of the finest runners" he's ever been associated with.

Gould won 11 out of the 13 cross country races he entered this year, placed third in the CIC meet, and fourth in the NAIA nationals.

Gould Topples Six-Mile Mark

Omaha University's outstanding distance runner Ken Gould won the second annual Iowa six-mile cross country Saturday in record-setting time.

Gould's mark of 32:29.5 topped by more than three minutes the mark set last year by Dave Lee of Des Moines. Lee was second in the field of 35 Saturday.

Save 2 years, because now you can complete Air Force ROTC in just half the time!

Are you interested in starting a military career while in college—but afraid it will cut too deeply into your schedule?

Well, here's good news for you. Air Force ROTC now offers a 2-year program. You can start it any time you have 2 years of higher education remaining—whether on the undergraduate or graduate level.

Here's another good thing about this program: you get a chance to "sample" Air Force life before you sign up. During a special summer orientation session, you get to make up your mind about the Air Force, and the Air Force gets to make up its mind about you. Only when both are satisfied are you finally enrolled in the program.

You'll learn a lot in Air Force ROTC. The curriculum has been completely revamped. The accent is on aerospace research and development. But of course the classes are only the beginning. The important thing is that you'll be taking the first big step toward a profession of great responsibility, as a leader on America's Aerospace Team.

Songs Given In Stairwell By 'Stairendipity Singers'

The Omaha University athletes have more talent than that displayed on the wrestling mat or basketball court.

Wrestlers Tom Accardia and John White and basketball's Sam Singleton spend their spare time singing. They are members of a quartet completed by Jay Bowlby.

A singing group is not unusual, but the unlikely place they pick to practice is. They can be found by the northwest stairs between the OUampi room and the bookstore in the student center every Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings.

Although the group is very informal, they enjoy performing for the crowd that inevitably gathers.

Tom Accardia, originator of the singers, is from New Jersey where he had a male a capella group also. He has been thinking of this group ever since he came to OU.

The quartet is still in its beginning stages but are willing to sing publicly anytime. They plan to take their hobby more seriously in the future, though, and start arranging original pieces.

Sadler Replaces Kennedy In Teacher Education Post

E. J. Sadler, supervisor of foreign language student teachers and an instructor in the College of Teacher Education, will take over Dr. Paul C. Kennedy's post as director of secondary student teaching.

Dr. Kennedy said that Sadler is well qualified for the position because of his work in the student teaching program. He said the fact that the Metropolitan Council on Teacher Education elected Sadler chairman is also a good appraisal of Sadler's qualification for the position.

Other Activities

Dr. Kennedy is leaving the position because other activities require too much of his time. The College of Teacher Education is involved in programs resulting from legislation such as the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. It is also involved with in-service education programs for teachers in the public schools.

Dr. Kennedy is also working with department heads to draw up program revisions in 26 different teaching fields. He said that more work has to be done with graduate level programs, anticipating programs that will be appropriate for persons wishing to continue their study in the education field.

Full-Time Job

"Since student teaching is an important part of the education program, it takes a great deal of concentrated attention," Dr. Kennedy said. He said that there must be someone available whenever the school administrators wish to see him.

"It is necessary, too, that someone be there to visit with the student teachers when they need to discuss something," he said. The secondary student teacher program has grown from 28 stu-

4 OU Professors Complete Their Doctors Dissertations

Two history department professors who have completed their dissertations for their doctor's degrees within the past two years are working now on having them published.

Dr. Harl Dalstrom, assistant professor of history, was granted his doctor's degree last summer from the University of Nebraska. His dissertation, "Kenneth S. Wherry," is a biography of the Nebraska senator who served from 1943-1951.

Three years of research were taken by Dr. Dalstrom to complete the study of the one-time GOP Majority Leader. He intends to condense it from its present two-volumes before submitting it for publication.

Dr. Ert Gum, professor of European history, has submitted his dissertation, "Italy Under Eugene Beauharnais 1805-1814," to the University of Oklahoma Press. His thesis treats the whole scope of the French rule of Italy under Napoleon's administration.

Dr. Gum spent two years researching at the Beauharnais Archives at Princeton University. He is the only person who has done any digging in depth in these archives since they came to the U.S. in 1934.

The subject matter of both Professors Dalstrom and Gum has never before been significantly researched.

The history department isn't the only one boasting new PhD's. Journalism head Paul V. Peterson completed his requirements by taking his oral exam Tuesday at the University of Minnesota.

His dissertation, entitled "The Omaha Daily World and World Herald, 1885-1964," was submitted last month. Prof. Peterson learned Monday that his paper had been approved.

The physical education department has a new PhD also. Russ Gorman received his doctorate from the University of Indiana last August. His dissertation concerned training programs and prerequisites of teaching physical education.

Librarian Caroline Markey Grain Of Sand Available In Bookstore Serves Omaha U 25 Years The World Of Verse Represented Well

"Mrs. Library" is leaving the Omaha University campus after more than 25 years of personal and professional service.

Mrs. Markey and Pratt Street . . . 25 years. campus to the east wing of the present administration building. She was also instrumental in the move to the Gene Eppley Library building in 1956.

She has observed that the open stacks provided by the adequate space of the newer building have encouraged the students to browse. Facts prove her point because circulation has increased from 90,000 to 385,000 volumes yearly since the move.

She has worked in every department in the library, but considers her present job, catalog department head, as her favorite. She says, "There is only one drawback, though—not meeting the students."

Honoree

She was surprise guest of honor at the library's annual Christmas party last Saturday. The evening of reminiscing brought back many memories of her happy associations through her work.

Mrs. Betty Seng, the order assistant in the library and past student-employee under Mrs. Markey, recalled how she was considered a mother and helper by all the student-assistants and "even some of the faculty!"

California Home

San Jose, California, will be her new home. She will live there with her children and 16 grandchildren. "I'll box up some sunshine and send it back to my friends in Omaha," she promised.

Miss Lord has accepted the retirement with regrets. After December 31, she knows she will wish she could call upon the vast

Placement Bureau Tells Of Openings

Many part-time jobs are now available on the Placement Bureau bulletin board outside Adm. 231.

The majority of these jobs pertain to permanent part-time work in sales.

"Sales jobs go wanting because, apparently, students don't think they are as interesting as other jobs," said Mrs. Yvonne Harsh, director of Placement.

"Apparently, they fail to realize that earnings are good, that the hours can usually be arranged to fit school schedules and that the experience gained is worthwhile," added Mrs. Harsh.

Other major job areas are in retailing, insurance, product sales, engineering and hospital work. There are also a few full-time jobs available.

experience of "the woman who knew all the books."

Bound memories

A scrapbook is being compiled for her by Mrs. Cathern Danielson, curriculum study librarian. Included in the university remembrances is a letter from Admissions Dean Kirk Naylor. It reads in part:

"... What changes you have seen and what a tremendous contribution you have made to this great university! Did you think you had gone unnoticed? Let me assure you that you did not. Your friends are a legion and you will always remain dear to the hearts of those of us who were privileged to know and work with you . . ."

By Clarence Wilson

The literary magazine, "Grain of Sand," is now available in the BSC Bookstore for 45 cents.

The world of prose is represented by three short stories, which were reviewed last week.

The world of verse is represented by many examples of poetic art.

The first, "At a Party of Beaudelaire" by Kathryn Gabig, presents a picture of blackness and evil, but would have meant more to me if I knew who Beaudelaire was or is.

Gary Johnson, in his "The Symphony of Know," has created a piece of literature that makes the "sound be an echo to the sense." In poetry, more so than in prose, the true artist chooses and puts together the right words to create a short expression of emotion. Johnson shows his artistry by choosing the right words. He spent much time on this work and his time was not ill-spent.

"Baby Christopher" by Carl Pixley and "Good-Bye Again" by Mary Meckel are love poems like Johnson's "Symphony." "Baby Christopher" tells of the love of a parent for a child. Pixley seems to have trouble with his words. They don't flow as easily as words of poetry should. "Good-Bye Again" tells the love of a woman for a man, but this time, the words flow easily.

I am particularly fond of "The Poet at Twenty" by Harold Schneider. His treatment of a trite subject, the A-bomb, is emotional almost to the point of being sob-sisterish. The poem speaks to me and to my emotions.

The poems, "The Action" and "The Agony" both by Mary Meckel are two more examples of the "sound being an echo to the sense."

"The moon is quicksand . . ." by Susan Borchman and "Loneliness" by Elizabeth McElher complete the poetry. They are examples of saying a lot with a few words and they capture the mood they are trying to express.
